Protect yourself against financial fraud

Financial fraud cases have doubled over the past decade as fraudsters use more sophisticated tools and tricks to steal money and personal information. With news of our landmark settlement now public, First Nations communities are at greater risk of being targeted, so ensuring your financial security is very important.

THERE ARE MANY DIFFERENT TYPES OF FINANCIAL FRAUD, HERE ARE SOME COMMON ONES TO KEEP AN EYE OUT FOR:

MAIL/EMAIL SCAMS

- Unsolicited mail advising that you are either the beneficiary of funds or winner of a lottery, gift cards or some type of sweepstakes.
- Requires the victim to pay upfront fees before money can be released.

PHISHING

- The solicitation of personal or financial information from victims by impersonating reputable organizations such as the Canadian Revenue Agency or banks.

COMPUTER TECH SUPPORT SCAMS

- Fraudsters claim to be from a tech company such as Apple or Microsoft saying that your computer has been hacked and they need remote access to fix it, which can expose your personal information.
- They will also ask for credit card information to charge a fee for the repairs.

ROMANCE SCAMS

- Romantic attention via phone, mail, in-person, or by digital means with the aim of gaining access to and exploiting personal and financial information.

WIRE TRANSFER & CHECK FRAUD

- A unexpected wire transfer request arrives via mail/email or a check arrives in the mail with ia request to a portion or all of the money back.

HERE ARE SOME TIPS TO HELP YOU BE MORE AWARE AND PROTECT YOURSELF FROM FRAUD:

VERIFY CREDENTIALS

- Verify the credentials of individuals or organizations before sharing any personal or financial information. Legitimate entities will provide clear documentation and contact information. Be wary of unsolicited calls, emails, or messages asking for sensitive information.

REVIEW FINANCIAL STATEMENTS CONSISTENTLY

- Checking your banking and other statements for suspicious activity on a regular basis is a great way to detect fraudulent activity and protect yourself from identity theft.

BE SKEPTICAL OF HIGH-PRESSURE TACTICS OR THREATS

- Fraudsters often employ high-pressure tactics or threats to coerce individuals into making hasty decisions. Take your time to research and evaluate any financial opportunities or investments before committing your funds.

NEVER CLICK ON ANY LINKS RECEIVED FROM SUSPICIOUS SENDERS

- Clicking on links from suspicious senders can expose you to various cyber threats, including malware, phishing, identity theft, financial scams, and compromised security.

PROTECT YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION

- Ensure that your personal and financial information does not fall into the wrong hands. Use strong, unique passwords for online accounts, and be cautious when sharing sensitive details online or over the phone. Properly secure documents containing personal information or shred before disposing of them.

ASK FOR HELP

- If you're unsure, ask for help! Trusted professionals, such as financial advisors, legal experts, and offices are at your disposal to help you offer valuable insights and help you verify suspicious requests.

Your First Nation Office will establish a process for collecting your personal and financial information so you can receive settlement payments. Please check their official platforms for accurate information. Remember, if it looks suspicious or "too good to be true", then it likely is.

Location: Mental Wellness Counselling Room – Health Side of the Band Office

Traditional Medicine Practitioner Keith D. Smith and his Assistant Valerie G. Smith provide Traditional Medicine services.

Keith Smith is an enrolled member of Red Lake Band of Chippewas in Minnesota. He belongs to two traditional societies, and over the past 35 years has learned traditional medicine practices from respected elders, teachers, and advisors. Valerie Smith is an enrolled member of Ho-Chunk Nation in Wisconsin. She was raised within her family's society and traditional ways and has been learning and supporting her husband Keith as his assistant/helper in the practice.

Together Keith and Val play an important role in helping Anishnaabe People be physically, and spiritually healthy. They live and promote an alcohol and drug-free life.

REGISTRATION NOW OPEN

BACK TO SCHOOL

IMPORTANT DATES

ENHANCED PROGRAM DEADLINE
JULY 17, 2024

REGULAR PROGRAM DEADLINE
JULY 31, 2024

Registration packages available from Stacey Lavallie at esw3@wlfn.com, or in person at the library. Phone registrations will not be accepted.

BACK TO SCHOOL INFORMATION SHEET

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN PROGRAMS?

The regular program consists of a $50 gift card for elementary students and a $100 gift card for secondary students, and is paid for by the Education Department. The enhanced program features additional support in the way of materials, back-to-school haircuts, etc., and is being funded by a Jordan's Principle application. JP Eligibility requirements must be met.

WHY ARE THERE DIFFERENT DEADLINES?

In order to receive funding from Jordan's Principle, we require detailed information for an application, and must submit it in time for funding to be available before the start of the school year.

I MISSED THE ENHANCED DATE. CAN I STILL REGISTER?

If you missed the date for the enhanced program, you cannot register for that program. You can register for the normal program. If you have additional needs, you can contact our Jordan's Principal representative with Atikameksheng Anishnawbek to file an individual application.

WHAT DO I NEED TO REGISTER MY CHILD/REN?

In addition to personal information (name, date of birth, address, school, grade), we will be collecting new information this year:

- OEN (Ontario Education Number) found on report cards or registration letters
- Status Card Number (For the youth)

WHAT IF I DON'T WANT TO SIGN THESE FORMS?

Every year we are required to have new release of information forms for Atikameksheng Anishnawbek and Kinoomaadziwin Education Body signed by guardians of youth under 16; youth 16 and older can sign their own. These forms allow us to share information with school boards and the Ontario government, and for them to share information with us. This allows us to offer programming support in schools, out of schools, and more. You can always choose to deny consent, but the forms must be signed indicating that consent is not given.

These forms must be signed before gift cards can be picked up, and will be available online in advance.

BACK TO SCHOOL INFORMATION SHEET

WHAT DO I NEED TO PICK UP MY GIFT CARDS?

The guardian of the child on file, or the child on file if over 16, may pick up the gift cards during or after the Back to School event in August (date to be determined).

To pick up the card(s), guardians or youth must have photo identification (driver's licence, status card).

I CAN'T MAKE IT TO THE BACK TO SCHOOL EVENT

If you cannot make it to the event, you may appoint someone to pick up the cards in your stead. You must email Stacey at esw3@wlfn.com in advance with the individual's name. They will be required to show photo identification.

I LOST MY GIFT CARDS. CAN I GET THEM REPLACED?

If a card is lost, stolen, or misplaced, it cannot be replaced as we have no way to de-activate old cards.

CAN YOU MAIL MY CARDS?

Unfortunately we are not equipped to distribute gift cards via mail. Cards must be picked up in person.

IN THE PAST I'VE JUST SHOWN UP & GOTTEN A CARD

As gift cards have to be purchased in advance we are unable to guarantee that gift cards will be available to non-registered participants. Your name will go on a wait list, in order of registration, should any gift cards remain unclaimed after three months.

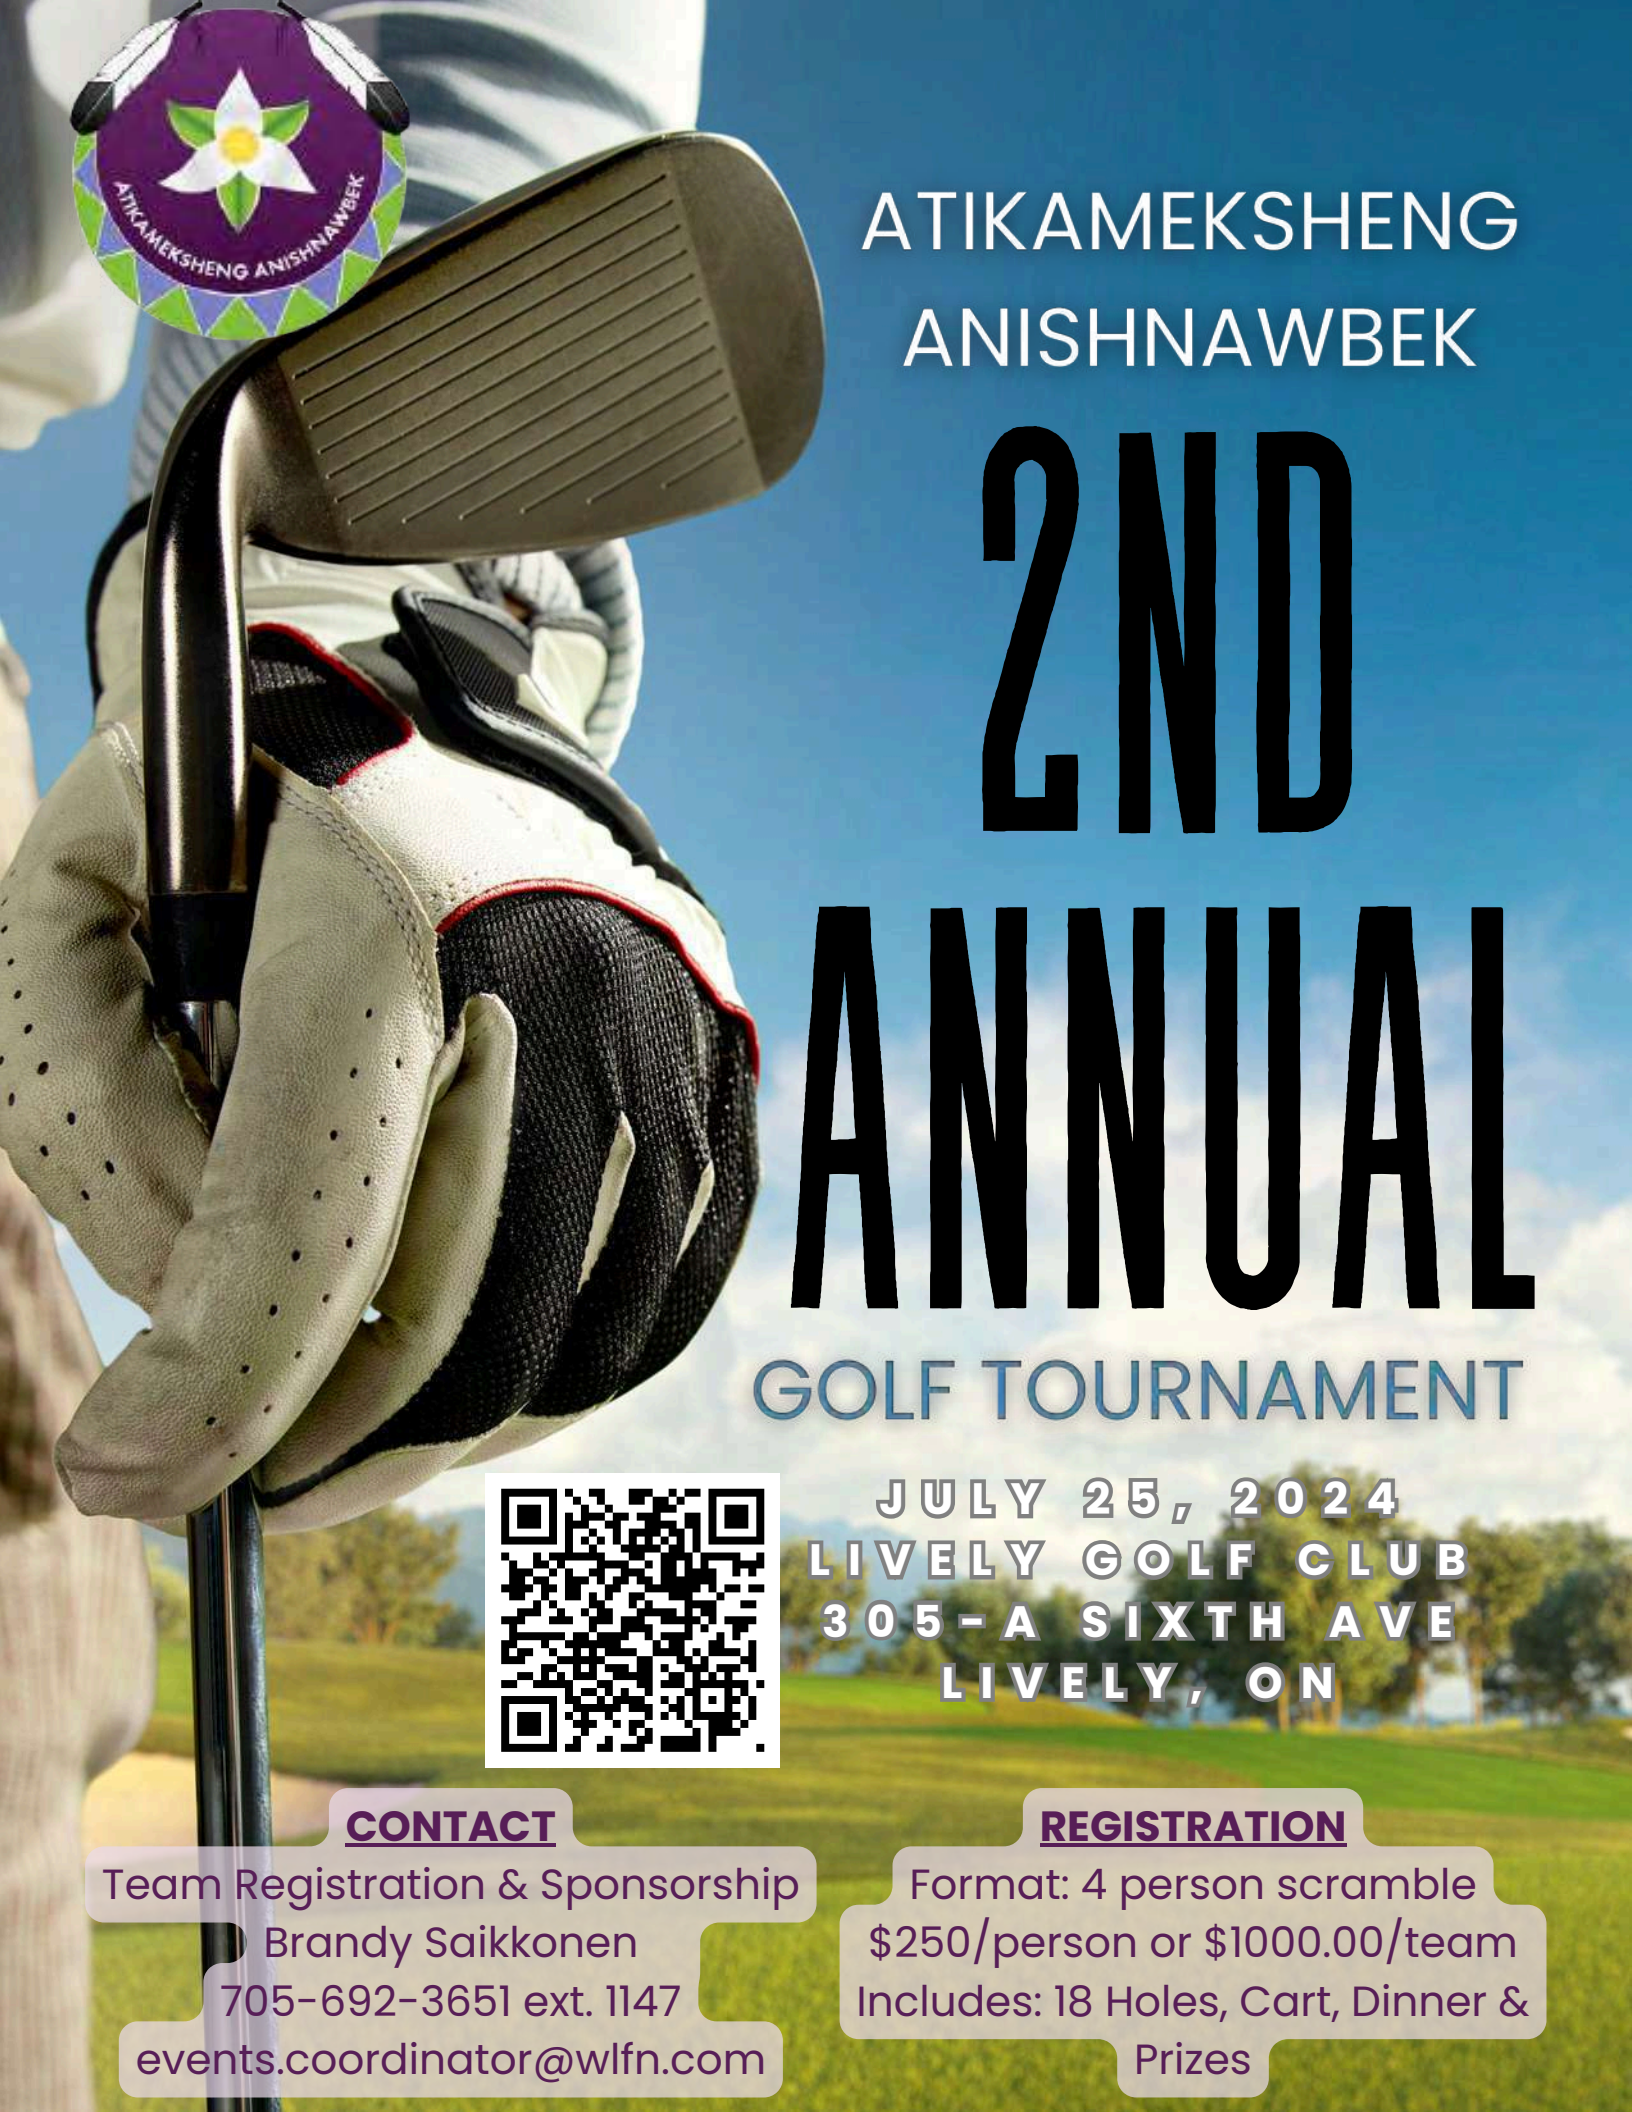

MY CHILD IS NOT REGISTERED WITH ATIKAMEKSHENG

Our eligibility criteria require that youth be registered members of Atikameksheng Anishnawbek, or are residing on the Atikameksheng Anishnawbek reserve.

If the youth is in process of becoming a registered member of Atikameksheng Anishnawbek and evidence of such can be provided, the youth will be eligible.

MY CHILD NEEDS A SCHOOL UNIFORM. CAN YOU HELP?

Yes. Registered band members or youth residing on reserve and attending uniform schools are eligible for up to $250 in uniform assistance, while funding is available. This is provided on a first-come, first-serve basis.

Indigenous Community Relations & Business Development Specialist

Thiess, a name synonymous with mining excellence, boasts a rich history dating back to 1933. From humble beginnings in Australia, Thiess has grown into a global leader specializing in mining services, land reclamation, and engineering and technology consulting. Our reputation has been built on our unwavering commitment to safety, innovation, and sustainable practices. With 12,000 employees and growing, our workforce has the skills, experience, and resourcefulness to realize opportunities, respond to project challenges, optimize solutions and bring lasting value to our clients.

The purpose of this role is to:

- Contribute to the development of reciprocal, respectful relationships with the impacted Indigenous communities
- Coordinate the implementation of the Indigenous engagement strategy with a heavy focus on developing sustainable and competitive businesses to promote and maximize Indigenous participation in our projects
- Collaborate with and provide specialist guidance to colleagues to achieve implementation and outcomes of strategies, plans, and programs
- Grow Thiess' business and win new projects through effective partnerships with Indigenous partner communities

This role will support the delivery of these functions by:

- Participating in short and long-range planning, establishing Indigenous priorities and business development opportunities
- Collaborating with local, regional, and national Indigenous leaders and their business and corporate development teams to co-design strategies and practices
- Developing content for inclusion in tenders and operational plans
- Supporting and/or implementing select programs that promote the positive, social impacts due to Thiess' operations partnerships with Indigenous communities.
- Developing sustainable and competitive Indigenous businesses in Thiess projects
- Social involvement and local content
- Social investment
- External relations include but not limited to the local communities, clients, Indigenous communities and industry

ESSENTIAL EXPERIENCE AND JOB REQUIREMENTS

- 5 years of experience working in, with or for Indigenous communities or other organizations in a business development, community engagement or similar role
- Regular domestic travel to regional, rural and remote communities is a requirement of this role
- Knowledge and understanding of Indigenous culture, values, and protocols
- Due to the nature of the role, candidates are required to hold a valid local driver's license in good standing

WHAT WE OFFER

- A permanent position working directly for Thiess, the world's largest mining services provider
- A competitive base and comprehensive medical benefits
- RRSP retirement savings benefit with employer 1:1 matching contribution
- Career development and opportunities locally, domestic within the region, and potentially globally
- Personal leave, for all of life's reasons

HOW TO APPLY

Interested applicants can submit their resume and cover letter by email at carolina.costa@thiess.com
For further information about the position or application process, candidates may contact us at 705-280-6884.
The deadline to apply is July 19, 2024.

JOB AID

WHAT IS PERTUSSIS?

- Pertussis (whooping cough) a very contagious infection of the lungs and airways caused by a bacteria called Bordetella pertussis; it spreads by respiratory droplets or direct contact with respiratory secretions of a case
- Have a high index of suspicion when an individual presents with paroxysmal cough or cough lasting more than 2 weeks, especially those with potential pertussis exposure including:
  - Recent travel outside community
  - Recent visitors from outside community
  - Exposure to a confirmed, probable or suspected pertussis case
  - Live in an area where pertussis cases have recently been reported

PERTUSSIS SYMPTOMS

- The clinical course of pertussis is divided into three stages:
  - Catarrhal stage: characterized by mild upper respiratory symptoms (e.g., fever, runny nose, conjunctivitis) with mild occasional cough that lasts approx. 1-2 weeks
  - Paroxysmal stage: severe and frequent cough which can last 1-2 months and sometimes longer; paroxysms characterized by repeated violent coughing, high pitched inspiratory whoop may occur, commonly followed by vomiting; fever is absent or minimal
  - Convalescent stage: gradual recovery period where the cough becomes less paroxysmal and resolves; may take weeks to months

IPAC PRECAUTIONS

- Immediately isolate symptomatic individuals using droplet and contact precautions:
  - Single room with door closed and patient wearing well-fitted medical mask
  - Staff should be up to date with pertussis vaccine
  - All staff must wear:
    - Gown and gloves
    - Well-fitted medical mask and eye protection (e.g., goggles) when within 2 meters of the patient
    - Additional PPE may be required based on risk assessment
- Routine environmental cleaning should be completed after patient discharge; routine precautions recommended for environmental cleaning

OBTAIN HISTORY

- History of presenting illness including symptoms and onset date
- Potential exposure history including travel, exposure to a known case or exposure event
- Immunization history

JOB AID

- Call local public health unit and/or ISC CD Unit IMMEDIATELY to report a suspected pertussis case
- Outside business hours contact ISC CD Unit by calling the EPHO After Hours Line (855-407-2676)

LABORATORY TESTING

- Pertussis laboratory testing requires a physician or nurse practitioner order
- Complete PHO General Test Requisition, including submitter, patient information, specimen source, onset dates, clinical diagnosis
- Samples should be stored at 2-8°C following collection and shipped to PHO laboratory on ice packs
- Maximum storage/transit time at 2-8°C is within 5 days of collection
- Additional information regarding pertussis testing is available in the PHO Test Information Index
- Notify local public health unit and/or ISC CD Unit prior to test collection for suspected pertussis cases

RECOMMENDED TESTING

Nasopharyngeal swab

- Preferred specimen type
- Should be collected during the acute phase of illness
- Collect nasopharyngeal swab using Bordetella pertussis collection kit order#: 390052

Sputum (including induced)

- Acceptable specimen type, not preferred
- Should be collected during the acute phase of illness

KEY POINTS 🔑

- Have a high index of suspicion for pertussis when individuals present with paroxysmal cough or cough lasting more than 2 weeks, especially those with potential for exposure
- Ensure all recommended samples are collected as outlined by PHO
- Report all suspected pertussis cases to local public health unit and/or ISC CD Unit IMMEDIATELY by phone; do not wait for laboratory confirmation
  - Initiation of case and contact management may be recommended based on index of suspicion
- Contact local public health unit and/or ISC CD Unit if you have any questions or concerns
